James amd I were good friends in school. We did a lot of things together and I considered him a very good friend. He and Myra came by to see us several years ago and I am thankful that he did. Jean sang duets with him in school. We will mis him greatly.##imported-begin##Bryant Jackson##imported-end##

My condolences to James' wife and family, he was a beloved member of my Seatweaving & Chair Caning Forum from day one in 2004. He was always very giving and sharing with his knowledge of chair caning making frequent posts and helping many with this answers to their questions. James will be missed by our whole online community as well as those customers and friends he had done chair caning repairs for. James was also very supportive of our new national chair caning guild when we set it up in 2007. He was one of our charter members of The SeatWeavers' Guild. And was always hoping to come to one of our summer gatherings and participate in the workshops and meeting everyone in person. Peace be with you all and blessings to our fellow chair caner, James M. Folmar who is now weaving in Heaven.##imported-begin##The Wicker Woman-Cathryn Peters##imported-end##
