Thoughts and prayers are with family and friends of Frank. I only had the pleasure of meeting Frank once. He has become one of my best friends even though. Frank was always there when I was at my lowest and was always able to help me up. I loved the way Frank lived his life to the fullest! I don't think I know anyone else that does that. I was wondering where his road trip would take him this year. Well I guess God made your road trip plans this year. Have a safe journey my friend! And know you will never be forgotten! Many love you! ##imported-begin##Sue Stran##imported-end##

My memory.. there are so many.. but my favorite is when we went to the zoo. They have an indoor jungle.. and as we were watching the monkeys, Frank.. being Frank..thought it would be cool to swing on the fake jungle vines..the monkeys started hopping up and down and yelling at him..they loved him to death..we started calling him the monkey king. He also had to pet the beavers. We almost got kicked out that day : When frank came to visit me the first time. i gave him a safari eeyore.. it was something that was very special to me. He took eeyore and ran.. i never thought it would be such a wonderful thing as we watched eeyore share in Frank's life and the friends he loved so dearly. I love you man.. i already miss you so terribly. Come see my new shop and visit when you can!##imported-begin##Gina Gray##imported-end##

Frank, although we never met, I know that I truly knew you. I miss our daily interactions and find myself thinking of you and your kind way many times each day. Our mutual passion of wood working brought us together as friends, but our love of animals and family made us even tighter. I always enjoyed the way you teased me and appreciated that you knew you could. You were a truly generous and loving man, I will miss you. xo##imported-begin##Cheryl Caven##imported-end##

My loving brother Frank. You will be missed by many. Not only did you have a passion for woodworking, you also loved animals very much. And it could be seen when you came to visit us. All the horses and Duchess loved you. You were also very happy when you received a good home cooked meal! It was amazing how much you could put away and still remain thin! I know we were not blood related, but I considered you to be my older brother and you considered me to be little sis. Even with all the stupid mistakes I made, you were still there to make me laugh about it. I will miss our chats and your visits when you came to stay with us, but I know you will be watching over my shoulder when I am in the workshop. Especially when I get back to turning pens and you lights up the little "RELAX" thing you wrote up on the wall. I love and miss you bro. ##imported-begin##Cherie Eppler##imported-end##
