To the Perry family (and Tommie Jack) There is no way to say enough good things about Wilton Perry. As the saying goes "you just can't hook him up wrong." He was a devoted and loved family man, a loyal Christian, a true friend, and an avid sportsman in every sense of the word. He was honest, fair and just to all. He and my husband made many rounds hunting the elusive coon, fishing for the big "opps", and just talking period. I have heard so many of their stories the last few days. Tommy has said there's not a man living that has skinned more deer and hogs, or cleaned more catfish than Wilton Perry. Wilton taught him how to river fish. And he could make the best sausage in East Texas. Tommie Jack, you are one of my oldest and dearest friends. Sorry I have not been able to get over to see you. Hopefully, I am making progress. "People will always leave your life and it can be painful, but those who are meant to stay will always be there." God's love be with you all through this, and know that Wilton is free from pain now, and will be made new. With much love, Rose Anderson
