Scott Freeman

DEC 25, 1955 - JUL 3, 2020

Scott Freeman loved living in Texas (but being from California), writing, movies, gardening, and his wife - not always in that order. He made his wife laugh everyday.

He expected much from his friends and family and more from himself. He liked a challenging conversation and some good gossip! He loved his nieces, his nephews and his sisters. Friend and mentor to many, he enjoyed playing host and required only that "you bring a topic for the table."

Memorial service will be private.

Dear Kim. I'm heartbroken to learn of Scott's passing. I thought he would live forever on a diet of weed and sarcasm. I learned so much from him and later both of you that I probably never even shared. Sending so much love and bright shining memories. Xoxo Tiff aka the seventeen year old

Scott was a fraternity brother from our college days at Cal. Although it was more than four decades ago, it seems like only yesterday. I vividly remember those late night philosophical talks about politics and how the world was changing. Dave Haneline and Ed Thibodeau are now with you. RIP Brothers.
